

MALAWI GOVERNMENT

SUGARCANE PRODUCTION

Sugarcane is successfully farmed in Malawi in Dwangwa and Nchalo. In both plantations sugar is processed, packaged and distributed throughout Malawi. Malawi sugar is also exported to neighbouring countries and to the European Union. Malawi has a huge export quota with the European Union which it fails to meet every year because of under production. The Malawi Government has in this regard developed the Green Belt Initiative to boost among others the production of sugar. If sugar production is your area of expertise, you may wish to look at opportunities of investing in the GBI in sugar in Malawi.

You should explore investing in a sugar plantation, sugar processing plant, an ethanol production and biogas and power generation. A sugar plantation investment is a long term investment commitment. For your comfort, security and confidence, we recommend taking a phased approach to your investment in Malawi in this sector. Furthermore, we completely recommend making backward and forward linkages with other industries including animal feed; mushroom production; fish farming; ethanol and many other industries.

In Malawi, Sugarcane is mainly produced in Dwangwa (Nkhota-kota district), Salima district and Tchalo in Chikwawa district.
