

MALAWI GOVERNMENT

LIVESTOCK PRODUCTION

Malawi's climate is ideal for animal production. Malawi's vegetation is very good for grazing animals. The grazing pastures in Malawi are even better than in other African countries that are major producers of beef and other animal products. The herds of livestock in Malawi are perpetually small due to high demand due to the high population density. Livestock products are therefore perpetually overpriced and scarce. This translates to a good market opportunity for you. If you can invest in livestock production for the local market, you will quickly cover your costs and make profits within a few months to 2 years. Livestock production presents a big investment opportunity and is guaranteed to provide you with steady returns if you adopt a good integrated approach. We also recommend backward and forward linkages including feed production, manual, bio diesel and bio gas, tannery, veterinary expertise, and many more.

Investment Opportunities in cattle production

You may consider investing in beef and dairy production; animal feed production; breeding animals; artificial insemination; veterinary services; beef processing and packaging; dairy processing and packaging; animal drugs and care; tannery and many more.

Investment Opportunities in pig production

You may consider investing in pork production; animal feed production; breeding animals; artificial insemination; veterinary services; pork processing and packaging; animal drugs and care; and many more.

Investment Opportunities in poultry production

You may consider investing in poultry production including chicken, duck, turkey, ostrich, guinea fowls and pigeons; eggs; bird feed production; poultry processing and packaging; poultry drugs and care; and many more.

Investment Opportunities in goat and sheep production

You may consider investing in goat and sheep production; animal feed production; breeding animals; artificial insemination; veterinary services; meat processing and packaging; animal drugs and care; tannery and many more. Goats and sheep in Malawi grow with minimal care and easily reproduce. They provide you with a steady stream of income. Due to easy of management, we recommend that you should consider having a goat and sheep production venture if you are doing any of the animal production ventures. We also recommend these two investors who are primarily interested in crop production.

Goats

Sheeps